

DIED IN CALIFORNIA

Miss Ethel Rulison Passes Away at Los Gatos

Dr. W. H. Cavell received a telegram yesterday stating that Miss Ethel Rulison, only daughter of C. H. and Mrs. Rulison formerly of this city, died at 4 o'clock Saturday morning at Los Gatos.

Miss Ethel was a native of Carson City and resided here until about four years ago when the Rulisons moved to Reno.

The past two years she has been suffering with heart trouble and much of her time was spent in California in search of health, the lower altitude being conducive to comfort and comparative freedom from pain.

The body will be brought to Reno for interment and the funeral will take place Monday afternoon.

DEATH OF DAN DESMOND

Comstocker Well Known Here Passes Away

Daniel Desmond, Jr. died at his late home on North C street at 3:55 o'clock this morning of pneumonia. He returned last Saturday from a trip to Southern Nevada where he went in the interest of the Comstock Soda works and while in Tonopah contracted the malady that proved fatal. He was energetic, ambitious and possessed a genial nature that made friends of all with whom he came in contact and was an exemplary citizen and his taking off in the prime of manhood is a severe shock to relatives and friends. He was a native of this city, lacking a few weeks of attaining his twenty-ninth year. He leaves a widow, one child, a father mother and two brothers and one sister. He was a member of Comstock Aerie No. 523 F. O. E. and Emmet Guard. He was insured in a New York company for $2,000, the policy being drawn in favor of his widow. Undertaker Kuhn will conduct the funeral.—Chronicle.

Why is This?

Ed. Appeal:—I am informed that the Trustees of the Public School have refused to allow Prof. Cushman of the State University to lecture on Shakespeare in the Assembly Hall of the new school house.

Now this strikes me as a very arbitrary proceeding. As I understand it Prof. Cushman has expressed a willingness to lecture for his expenses and there will be but a nominal admission fee charged in order that the school children may get the educational benefits of the lectures.

Some weeks ago I gave $5 toward getting chairs for the school and it was understood at the time that the new Assembly room was to be used for the public. The school was built by the taxpayers money and all are publicly interested. Are we going to treat a University Prof in this manner and are all so well posted in theatricals that we don't want to learn anything new about Shakespeare. I have children going to the school and I would like them to learn something of the author of Hamlet.

A Taxpayer.

Annual Spring Vacation

Friday the pupils attending the Carson school were given their annual Spring vacation of one week with instructions to report at the new school building.

So ends the history of the old central school building which has been the scene of the schooldays of the majority of the residents of this city and around which many fond memories linger.

Work of tearing the old building down will commence without delay by the present owner, Dr. Lee, who will erect a modern home on the site.

Force Increased

At a special meeting of the directors of the Savage mining company held in San Francisco yesterday a resolution was passed instructing the superintendent to put on another shift of miners in order to hasten the work of getting to the ledge on the Sutro tunnel level. In accordance with instructions Superintendent A. J. McDonnell put on another shift today and the work of cleaning out the main tunnel to the incline will be reached as speedily as possible.—Chronicle.

At the Track Today

The first real baseball game of the season will be played at the race track today and Captain Beals of the "Has Beens" was around looking for capital last evening as he says he has plenty of his own to risk on the result of the game.

Corpse of an Indian Baby Discovered

The body of an Indian child, that had been dead presumably for several weeks, was found a few days ago by Ben Cardinal, who is attached to a party of government surveyors now making a geological survey of Diamond Valley, Alpine County, Cal. The body when found presented a gruesome spectacle. It was still tied in the basket which Indian mothers use, and was lying face downward in a clump of willows on the trail leading from Woodford into Diamond valley. Mortification had set in and the stench which arose when the basket was turned over almost sickened Cardinal. The authorities have not been notified.

It is a very uncommon thing for Indians to thus abandon their dead and it is thought that the child died of some pestilential disease and was thus discarded to prevent a spread of the malady. There is a possibility also that the body was unearthed by some animal, a coyote for instance, and the beast frightened off before it could devour its prey. Indians do not often bury their dead very deep and the above theory would not be improbable.

The body is still lying as found, unless it has since been discovered by coyotes and in which event it has probably been destroyed. When the attention of the Alpine authorities is called to the matter by this article they will undoubtedly investigate.—Gardnerville Record Courier.

Called to Virginia

Frank Regan and wife were called to Virginia City last evening by the death of Dan Desmond, Jr.

Served Him Right

W. B. Bradberry, a millionaire of San Rafael, Cal. has been sentenced to year in San Quentin for perjury. He loaned James McCue some money on a valuable piece of property and when the time came for McCue to pay the mortgage, Bradberry, who coveted the property, deliberately set about to secure possession of it on a trivial mortgage. He went to the bank where McCue as a rule secured accommodations and asked them not to advance McCue any money. He hoped by this means to beat McCue out of the property and get it for a song.

McCue, as is well known all over California is not an easy man to trifle with in litigation, as Bradberry found later on. He brought suit against Bradberry and charged him with trying to stop the sources of money supply and destroy his credit in order to get the property. Bradberry on the stand denied ever having made such an attempt, but the testimony of the bank officials was against him and he was convicted of perjury and will have to spend a year in jail. It serves him right and the sentence is a light one. His attorney attempted to show that it was merely "defensive perjury."

More Stocks Listed

Seven new stocks in Manhattan district have been listed at the San Francisco Stock Exchange the past two days.

Mrs. J. C. Hackelman, a young woman of Reno became totally blind yesterday while engaged in sewing.

Two farmers came into our office the other day and kicked because we didn't print all the news. The same night these very two farmers were caught stealing coal from the S. P. Co. and were arrested. The next morning they called on us bright and early and asked us to suppress the story. This is the way a newspaper man gets it.—Independent.

Jim Orndorff Married at 71

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Dash ing and debonair, despite the seventy one years he owns up to "Jim" Orndorff, one of the most picturesque figures in this community, is married again. Wednesday last he was wedded to Mrs. Gussie Hall, a comely widow, twenty three years his junior.

James W. Orndorff is known to the men of early days, though the present generation hears little about him. He was one of the band of adventurous spirits that helped to make life in Virginia City what it was when the Comstock fever was at its height. He was a dashing figure in those days, when gambling was a sport in which all who made money fast indulged as recreation.

Many years ago Orndorff came to San Francisco and at the present day keeps a billiard parlor in this city.

Weather Delays

The Virginia & Truckee company has fifty laborers in Reno waiting to be sent to lay the track on the extension. They have been held back because of the moisture in the embankments, which south of the river is almost pure clay and which is thoroughly saturated with water.

A large force of men will be put to work Monday ditching on this section of the road bed. It will be but a few days before tracklaying will begin and then the road will be completed with a rush.

The heavy steel has been put in place all along the line from Reno to Carson City and it is ready to bring forward. The ties, frogs, spikes, fish plates, switch targets and all other supplies are on the ground.
